DON'T LET PESTS
EAT AT YOUR BOTTOM LINE

Keeping costs down is an important part of running any business. But cutting corners on pest management could really eat at your bottom line.

Food and pests don't mix.

Rats, mice, birds and cockroaches all carry disease. When they come in contact with food, their disease is passed on to humans.

With 5 million cases of food poisoning in Australia each year, the message of keeping pests out of your food preparation areas is more important than ever.

Besides the ever growing threat of litigation, the run on effect of discovering pests in your business could mean complaints, a loss of consumer confidence, and cost you a whole lot of time and money.

But prevention is always better than cure.

Murray Pest Control offers risk assessments to help you understand the impact of pests and your food hygiene obligations, Food Standards Australia New Zealand and Hazard Analysis and Critical Control Point (HACCP) principles.

And if you do have a pest problem, you can be confident that your food and workplace remain safe.

So don't let pests eat at your bottom line. Speak with Murray Pest Control about a food standards risk assessment of your business.
